

H.E Mr. CHUM Sopheamakara

Deputy Director General of APSARA
National Authority

Mr. CHUM Sopheamakara was born in 1982. He received the Master degree in Private Law from the University of Jean Moulin Lyon 3, France, in 2006. In that year after returning back to serve his country, He joined the ADHOC National Non-Government Organization (Human Rights Organization) as the field trainer of the Khmer Rouge trial case in Kampong Chhnang Province for a year before he took national examination with success for continuing his study at the Royal School of Administration, the prestige school in Cambodia for training high ranking civil servant students, in 2008.

He graduated in August 2010, Major Diplomacy, and started working for the Office of the Council of Ministers in the International Relation Department before transferring to the Royal School of Administration as the Assistant of School Director in September 2011. He was then nominated as Deputy Director of the Initial Training Department in October 2013. Before that, He was also able to experiencing in the diplomacy fields by doing an internship at Royal Embassy of Cambodia in France and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation in Cambodia for almost 3 months each. He had been also attended many national and international training programs.

He is currently the Deputy Director General of APSARA National Authority, in charge of Administration and Finance and at the same time supervising the Angkor Training Center and Angkor International Center of Research and Documentation.

